The Hamlin House, Durham

KNOCK KNOCK

The Hamlin House, Durham

ARTICLE CONTRIBUTED BY JUDY BOWDEN
Sometimes we dream of also building our own house. It could crumble, and move into a smaller home. That's closer to everything important to us, our community, our favorite restaurants and markets. We think of being closer to our friends, and most importantly, closer to our family. We dream of having a place where we can live more simply, settle down and, just maybe, point. I felt like that was the least of the purpose. Carol Hamlin’s decision to build her new home in Dinkytown. Recently, I walked through a home she completed recently and fell in love with her architectural style and style. We kicked off our shoes and established room in our minds to be the place where the outdoors directly interact with the indoors. This is a model modern design in a small wooded lot on a green field. This house has only 2,000 square feet, but room larger than the. The house has been voted to be one of the greenest homes in the city and area. The architect was thoughtful and efficient with her design. For example, she was able to raise the ceiling in the master bedroom slightly, since the room was at the end of the line for the airmat system and didn’t need a dropped ceiling. She also made the most of the natural light by extending the living space into the landscape. The designed a porch, a covered porch, a rear porch, and a comfortable sitting area placed just outside the living area.

TIPS FOR HOME BUYING:

AN ADVERTISING FEATURE

Thank you to all the REMAX agents in North and South Carolina who contributed to a total of $4,771,762 transaction sales in 2013. You’ve helped thousands of families achieve their dreams of homeownership. Contact a local REMAX agent or office at remax.com.